

MARRIED

McCALLUM—McHENRY -- At the church of the Blessed Sacrament, Rochester, N.Y., by Rev. Father Connors, on Sunday, June 21st, Archie J. McCallum, of LaLuz, Mexico, to Miss Eliza McHenry, of Rochester.

WARMORA HERALD

2 JUL 1908

Nursing Sister Helena McCallum, of Deloro, has been decorated with the Royal Red Cross. She is a graduate of St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, went overseas early in the war, and served in Salonica and now in France.

MEMORANDUM

18 JUL, 1918, P 65

HYMENEAL

A wedding of much interest took place at 10 a. m. on Tuesday, October 7th, at the church of the Sacred Heart, Marmora, when Miss Lillian MacCallum, daughter of the late John A. and Mrs. MacCallum of Deloro, became the bride of Mr. Albert Eubald Robillard, C. E. B. Sc., son of the late Mr. Robillard M. P. P. of Toronto.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. M. Traynor.

The bride who was given in marriage by her brother Mr. Archie MacCallum, approached the altar to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March played very affectively by Miss Marion Shannon.

She looked more than usually charming in a suit of soft green chamois with bands of metallic braid, this worn over a long tunic of beige brocade with hat and shoes to match. Her bouquet was of beautiful cream roses.

During the ceremony, Miss Genevieve Shannon in very sweet voice sang Roswigg's Ave Marie.

The church was artistically decorated with late autumn flowers, while no wedding in Marmora has ever attracted so large an attendance of friends and admirers,

Mrs. R. Hugh Ellis, a sister of the bride attended as matron-of-honor and was gowned in fine pleated beige crepe with a panel of hand embroidered lace. She wore a spanish lace scarf and carried pink roses.

Dr. Ellis performed the same happy function for the groom.

Mrs. MacCallum, mother of the bride was in black and violet with ostrich feather collar.

Mrs. Murray, another sister of the bride, wore a dress and hat of a soft apricot shade with a beautiful seal wrap, while Mrs. Archie MacCallum looked very handsome in black and white.

The ushers were Master Ted Hughes and Fergus Murray, a nephew of the bride.

After the ceremony, the wedding party drove to Belleville, where Dr. and Mrs. Ellis were host and hostess at the Quinte Hotel.

The bride and groom left on the C. N. R. for the Pacific Coast, where they will spend a month before they return to Toronto where they will in future reside.

On leaving the bride carried a full length plucked beaver coat, the gift of the groom.

The groom's gift to the matron-of-honor, was a very handsome bar pin and to the groomsman a scarf pin. The gifts to the ushers were gold cuff links.

The wedding presents were many and very handsome and among others were two very substantial cheques.—
Com,

OCT, 1924
MARMORA
HERALD

Mrs. J. A. McCallum, who spent the winter in Ottawa with her daughter Mrs. (Dr.) Ellis, has returned to Marmora and will reside in the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Murray on Madoc street. Mrs. Ellis accompanied her and spent several days here. Miss Anna McCallum is expected to return to Marmora soon and spend the summer here with her mother.

MARMORA HERALD
12 MAY 1927

Mrs. Anne McCallum, who has been spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. (Dr.) Ellis, Ottawa, motored to Toronto on Sunday to celebrate her ninetieth birthday with her daughter, Mrs. A. E. Robillard. Her many friends in Marmora and Deloro join in extending congratulations and best wishes for health and happiness for several more years.

MARMORA HERALD
25 APRIL, 1935
A.C.S.

Mrs. J. A. McCallum, who spent the summer with her son, Mr. Archie McCallum, Deloro, went to Ottawa last week where she will visit her daughter Mrs. (Dr.) R. Hugh Ellis, for some time.

MARMORA HERALD
15 Nov, 1934

Town honors airmen

In July, 1944, Lancaster ND994 circled over its cloud-covered target, a railway yard. To improve their chances of surviving the flak and fighters on the trip home, the easy choice would have been to bomb. However, orders were to not risk civilian lives.

Thirty minutes later, over Loches-Sur-Ource, ND994 was shot down. After a 24-hour church vigil, its five Canadians received what remains the grandest funeral in local history. Even a delegation of German officers laid a wreath.

As it is not a military cemetery, local people care for the graves and flowers. On Remembrance Day, the Canadian flag is raised. The Liberation Festival includes ID photos and information on the Canadians, as well as pieces of their aircraft. As a mark of respect, the crash site remains in a cornfield. There is a Resistance memorial to the airmen: "They died the helpless to defend."

We know this from photos and letters from the mayor and townfolk and the book, Massacre Over The Marne.

After the liberation, the RCAF received a letter. "Will you please send to William McCollum's mother this Cross of Lorraine made from material of the position her son occupied. If the photo of William appears too natural and might cause his mother pain, will you tear it up. She will certainly wish to have the others. Tell her that her son was prepared for burial with as much love and tenderness as if he had been her own son and that the farewell kiss given to William was for his mother and thinking of her."

William was 21 years old and attended De La Salle School in Toronto.

MICHAEL MCCOLLUM
Pickering

TORONTO STAR
26 MARCH, 1995
SECTION F, PAGE F5

Just after 8 p.m. by the store wall that shields the tap for the holy water a crowd has gathered a thinning man in a wheelchair.

He is being helped to his feet by relatives including his mother. It is cool in the annual grove and as the late afternoon light strikes in the pines are singing over and over. A luncheon of celebration.

A stout woman in a pink sweater is trying to feel the man. Clapping his hand on her face and shouting, "Look at me. Look at me. You to talk. Say Jesus. Jesus. Say Jesus."

They invited about 60 people, only to have 200 show up. A few weeks later 400 people turned up for the next feast day. Today the feast on the outskirts of Manirora about 230 kilometers west of Ottawa on Hwy 1, has grown into perhaps the most popular pilgrimage in Ontario.

Any doubt about that was erased last October when a crowd in excess of 10,000 gathered on the Marne — the place that Sted Capital of Ontario — to hear a vespers from Medjugorje.